DETROIT COUNTRY DAY SCHOOL

Birmingham, Michigan

At Detroit Country Day School a great deal of emphasis has always been placed on giving the boys an education for the future. We of the yearbook staff feel that this requires more than just a well trained faculty and an advanced curriculum. We feel that to achieve the above ideals a school should offer a wide variety of activities in areas other than the purely academic ones. To insure the attainment of this well rounded education a close relationship between students and faculty is essential. A relationship of this sort requires that each member of the faculty be sincerely dedicated to the field of education and take an active interest in the student body. We of the senior class feel that at Country Day we have attained these ideals.

Fundamentals of a lasting education

In the compilation of this volume the staff considered many formats and methods in order to find the best way to illustrate this system of close ties and fast friendships. What you now have in front of you is the result of many hours of hard work on the part of many people. We who have been connected with this project have earnestly attempted to show each of the aspects of life here and only can hope that this book gives a true indication of the deep feeling of indebtedness which we all hold for this school, which has played such a large part in our lives. These, then, are the feelings and the intentions that have gone into the preparation of this book and we of the Class of 1963 sincerely hope that the qualities of this school that we have admired so much are retained forever to the benefit of those who follow the same steps through education that we have just completed.

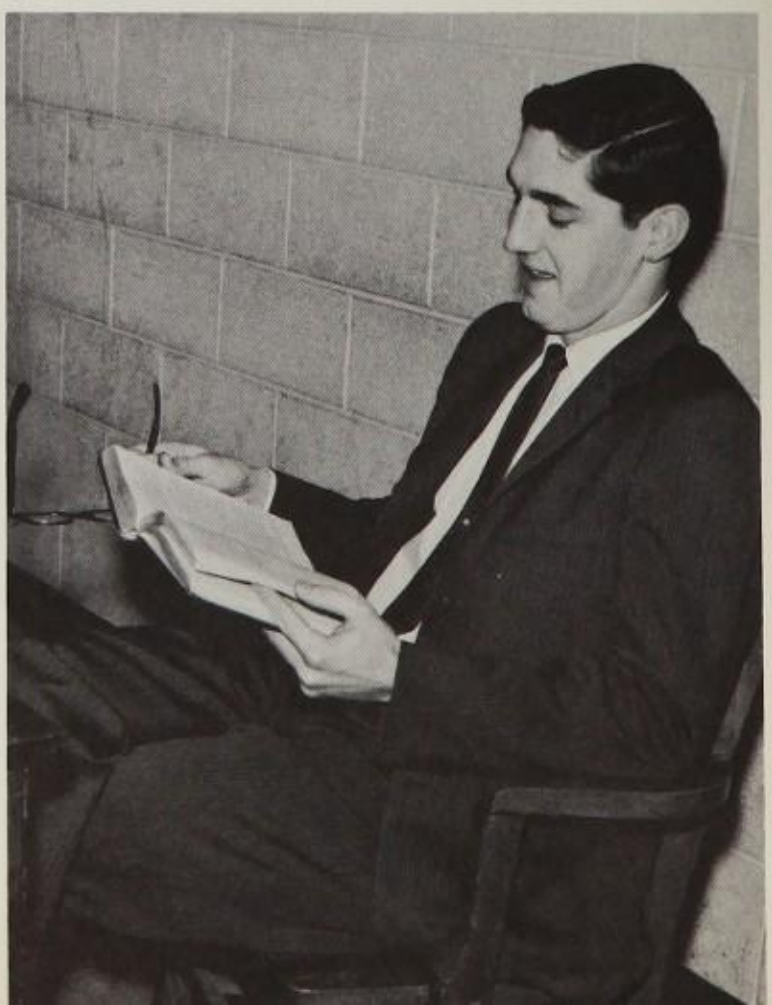
Mr. John Michael Poplawski

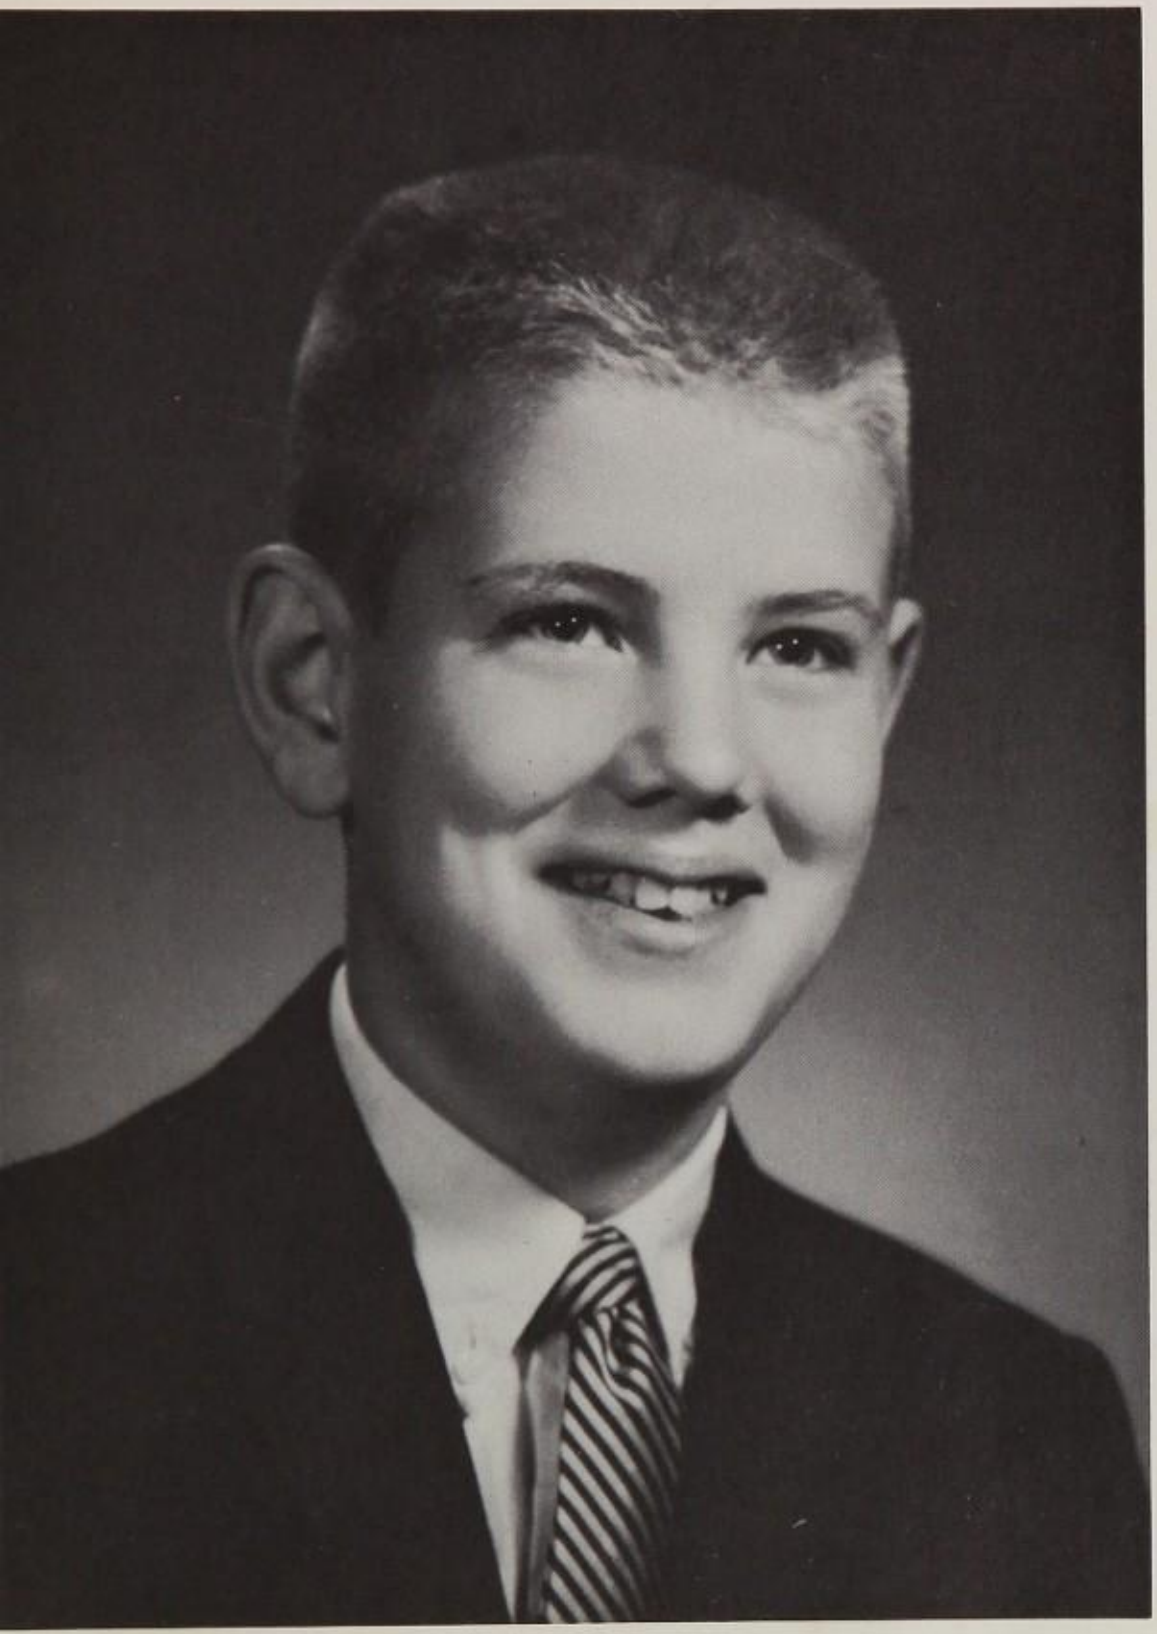
In the four years that Mr. Poplawski has taught at Country Day, he has had a great deal of influence on a great many boys here. Whether coaching a team, conducting a class, or just taking part in a friendly conversation in the hall, he commands a great deal of respect from the students and teachers alike. Whatever he undertakes he does with solid devotion and dedication.

One of the major aspects of his personality, that boys admire, is the understanding he possesses for the students.

It is for these reasons that the Class of 1963 dedicates this edition of the Detroit Country Day School, Blue and Gold to Mr. John M. Poplawski.

Dedication

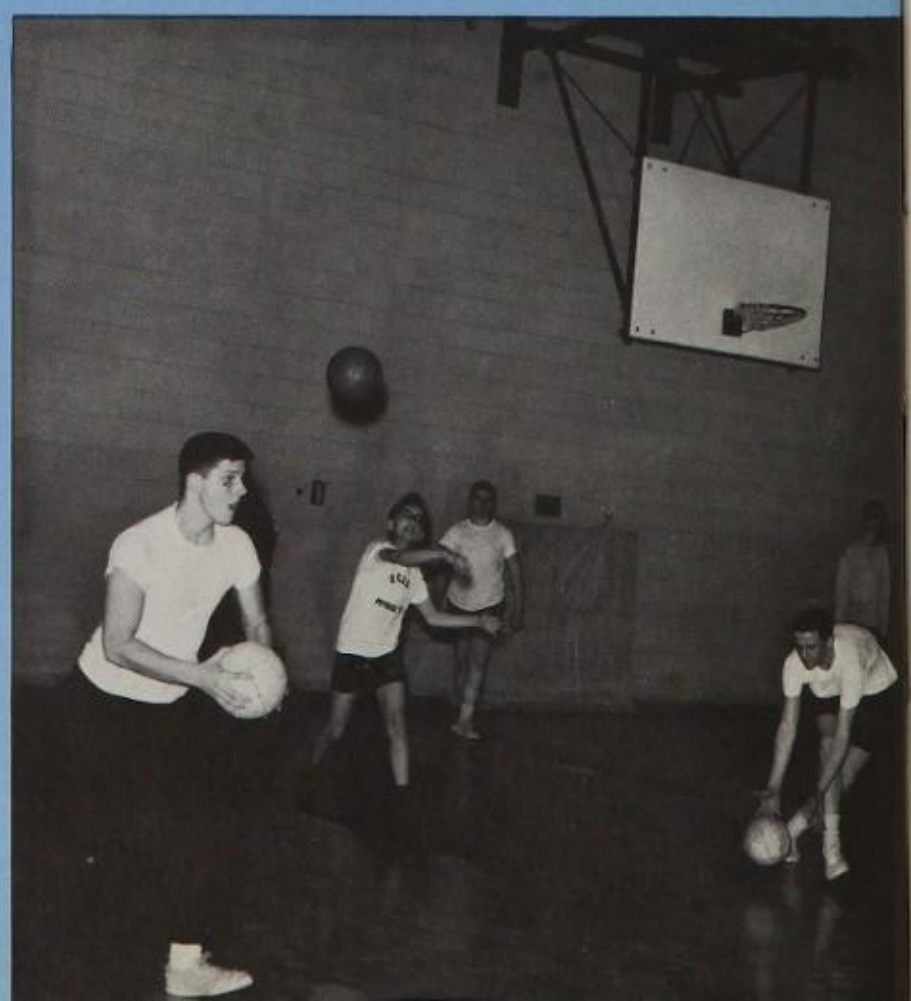


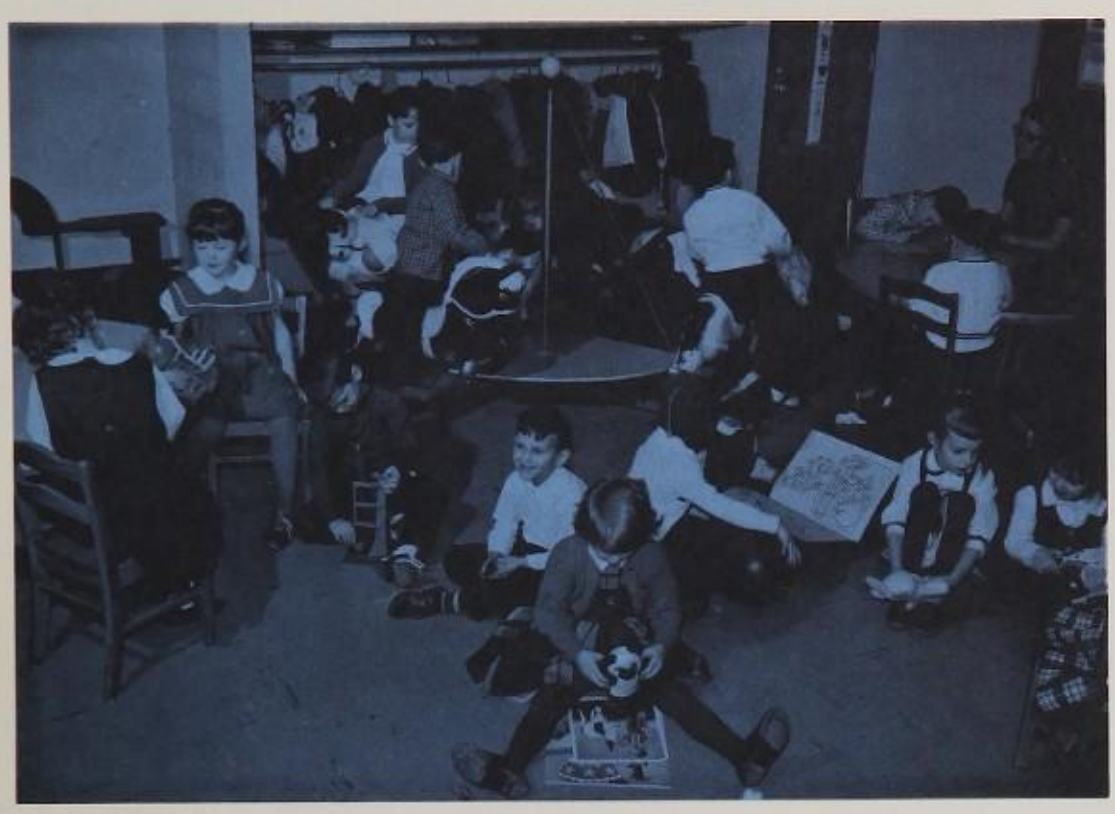


In Memoriam

It was with deep sorrow that the student body accepted the news of the death of one of their classmates in early March. This seventh grader was one of the most devoted boys to the school that have ever graced the halls of Detroit Country Day. The yearbook staff respectfully takes this opportunity to express our condolences to his family and friends and issues this yearbook IN MEMORIAM to Bart Tenney

Rounded program keeps students busy





Translated the motto of the school reads "A sound mind in a healthy body" and from the youngest student to the oldest the school program is designed to give these benefits. On many occasions during the year the students in the junior and senior high school are given the opportunity to hear distinguished speakers from many walks of life. It is felt by all concerned that this series gives a very beneficial experience to the student and it is one of the most popular aspects of the life at school.

With the Senior Lecture Series to aid in building the mind, we also have a counterpart to aid in preserving the healthy body. This program takes the form of athletics both of interscholastic and intra-mural types.

There are very few times when the student body has time to actually take a rest and I have already mentioned the first, namely the athletic period. The most appreciated time of the day is lunch. At this time the students can take a brief rest from the busy day and at the same time take in some nourishment for the rest of the day. These have been just a few of the many ways in which the school life gives the student the well rounded abilities that will help to make him a success in the future.

To these three men the students at Country Day owe a tremendous debt. Dr. Snelling, Mr. Shaw, and Mr. Phillips represent the administration of the school. Dr. Snelling and Mr. Phillips serving as headmaster and assistant headmaster respectively work every day to keep the school running smoothly. Mr. Shaw, the founder and former headmaster of the school still serves as the president of the Board of Trustees. In evidence of their dedication to the field of education I would like to say that all of these men teach at least one class in addition to their other duties.

In the hands of these three men is placed the responsibility of giving the students a fine education and we of the Blue and Gold sincerely thank these men for their fine work in the past and hope that they will continue to do the same job in the future.

Math program advances

One of the strong points in the education one receives at Country Day is in the mathematics area. Since the arrival of Dr. Snelling to the school the math program has been stepped up greatly. The fifth and sixth grades are at this time experiencing an advanced mathematics 'program. Algebra is taught to them now. In the seventh and eighth grades a stepped up program in algebra is being presented. A student who doesn't wish such a comprehensive program can take less demanding courses. After the tenth grade geometry course, one can take an advanced college algebra and trigonometry program. If a student does well in this course he can as a senior take a calculus course.

When a student finishes such a program he is well equipped to go on to more advanced courses in college.

Seniors Tony Lemessurier and Phil Skover receive help in math from Miss Troyer.

Paul Risk and Allan Saylor receive instruction from Karl Sniderman in proper methods of construction.

Pronouncing lesson is given by Richard Crystal to French students Bob Morris and Al Kelley.

Language department enlarges

Mr. Arnold conducts session in language lab for a Spanish class.

An area at Country Day that has become increasingly important is that of languages. In the fifth and sixth grades a modified French program is taught to them by language department head Richard Crystal. In the upper grades a more advanced program in French may be taken or other languages. Latin is offered to those wishing it. Spanish is also offered to students wishing to become accomplished in more than one language. With the recent installation of the language lab it is possible for the student to become more proficient in the actual use of the language.

With the variety of the programs offered the school still has plans to enlarge the number of languages taught as well as the facilities. Emphasis is put on being able to speak more than one language and D.C.D.S. is doing a successful job.

Science department takes new strides

Chuck O'Neil and Steve Lewis observe physics in action.

The future of this country depends greatly on its number of people in the field of science. At Detroit Country Day an excellent science program is offered to the students. Many of the recent improvements are due to the arrival of Mr. Held who is head of the science department. Back in the lower grades a general science education is now being given. The freshmen are taking a physical science course. The tenth grade as usual takes biology. The junior and senior classes take chemistry and physics respectively. A new course is being taught in physics. This is the result of a course introduced by Mr. Held.

If a boy receives a complete science education at D.C.D.S. he will go out with a knowledge he will be able to use well.

Students learn proper techniques in reading program.

English is the Key to communication

It is important for man to be able to communicate. The English department, headed by Phillip Dillman, has made many strides this year in progressing towards this goal. Not only are the anthologies dealt with, but novels and plays as well as other literary aspects are included. This year the school library has been organized and built up with the aid of a mothers committee. This is a great aid to the expanding English department. Since a student does a great deal of reading, a reading program is offered to help build this important skill. The final part as well as the beginning part of each school year is the summer reading program.

When a boy leaves Country Day it is sure that he is prepared for the necessary skills that he will need in the all important future.

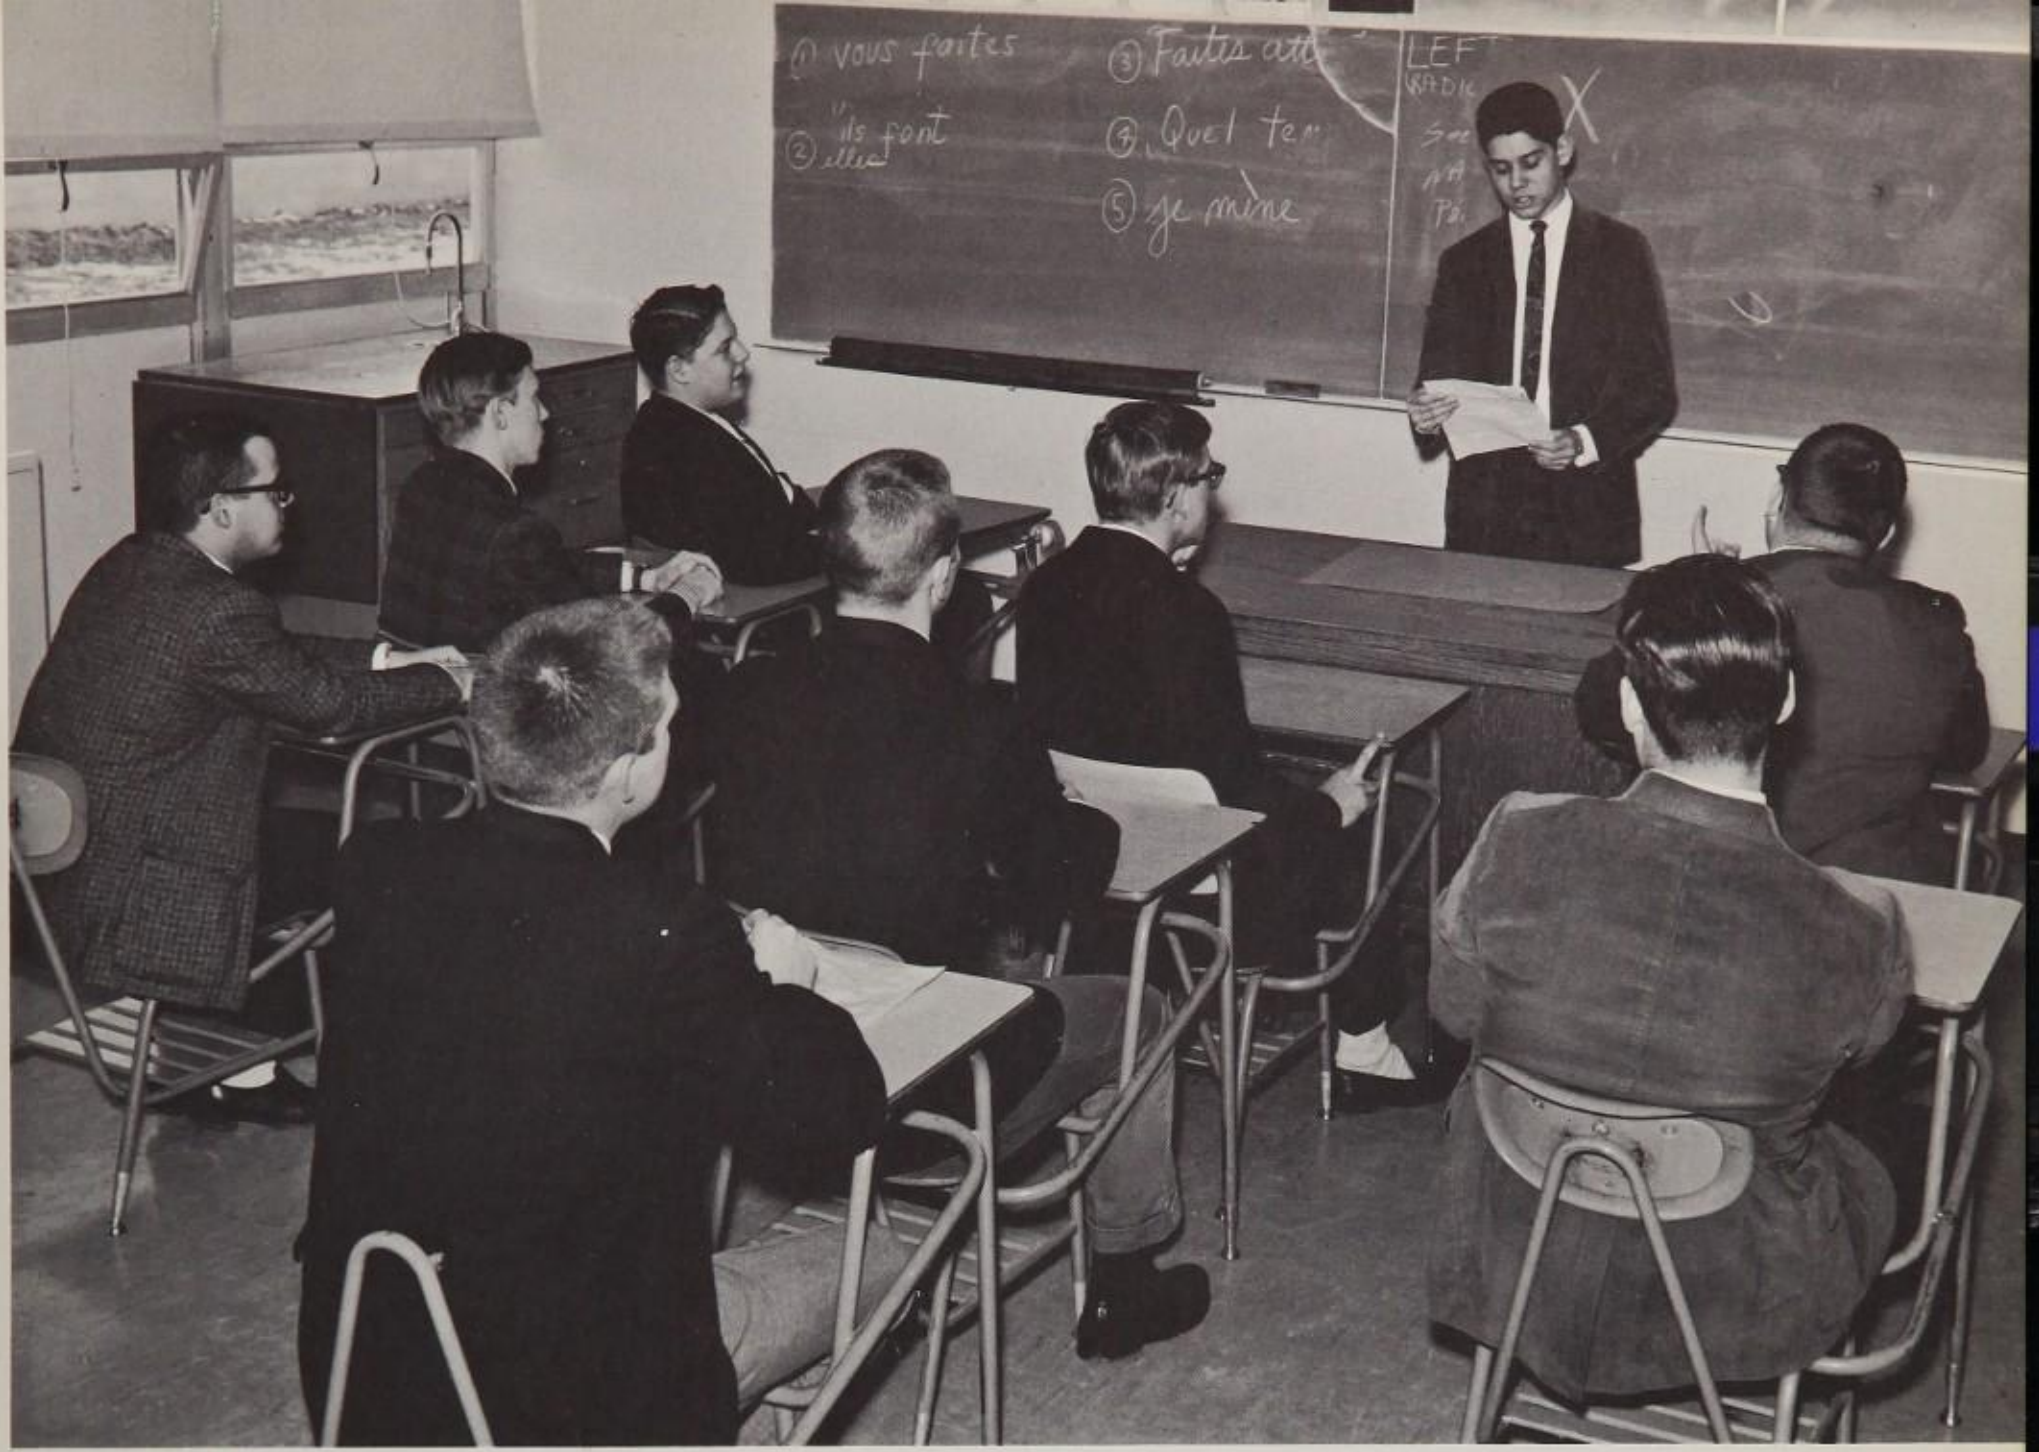
Country Day students taking advantage of library facilities.

Full history program offered

The history program at Country Day has always been a very fine one. At the present time this staff is happy to note that from all indications this will be the case for many years to come. After a thorough grounding in geography received in the seventh and eighth grades, the boys move to a study of Ancient History in the ninth grade and a course of Modern European History in the tenth grade. In the junior and senior years the scene shifts to the history of our own country. The juniors study U. S. History and in the senior year the course offered is one in Government. At the end of this program a student has received an education in history which will serve him well for the rest of his life.

Mr. Browne points out the current area being studied.

Students listen attentively as Mr. Campbell lectures to them.



Spencer Rogers takes the government class to present a paper.

Government is threefold course

As seniors the students are given a course in the various types of government found in the world today with the greatest emphasis falling on that of the U. S. and its states and territories. The course is divided into three parts and each part is taught by a different teacher. Mr. Campbell handles the course in United States Government, Mr. Poplawski teaches the course in which the students study other world governments, and Mr. Shaw gives a course in governmental philosophy. Due to the fact that the course is primarily one in which the teacher lectures and therefore much like a college class, the majority of seniors feel that this is their favorite course.

Mechanical Drawing

The function of Detroit Country Day is to provide a well rounded education. For the students with a special talent for drawing in the upper school, manual arts or mechanical drawing serves as the answer. Mr. Clarence Harris conducts the class in the shop where the mechanical atmosphere is always prevalent. This course has always been well received by the participants. The knack of precision and neatness is a valuable trait for any college-minded person.

Mr. Harris points out a problem to Steve Munson, Wally Addis, Tim Hettinger, and Chuck Conlon.

The Typing Department

Special attention at Detroit Country Day is given to the development of a well rounded education. In order to assist young men for college courses of all sorts, typing is offered as a supplement. Members of the Junior and Senior classes are eligible, with the number of students varying between three and fifteen. This small number gives the instructor ample opportunity for individual instruction.

This year Mrs. Snelling took over as head of the typing department and has inspired the typing class to establish new speed records with high accuracy.

Jim VanderKloot and Eric Winkelman discuss correct typing methods with Mrs. Snelling.

Honor Society

A student at Country Day must have a high level of academic achievement in order to even stay in the school. Marks are often misleading, but to receive passing grades a student has to put in many hours of study. Those who make higher levels of achievement are placed on the honor society. A minimum average of between a B— and B has to be maintained in all courses taken by the student. Once on, a student may only receive one C or else he loses his position. This year there are many students that have made the honor society which well proves that the number of scholars at Country Day is on the way up.

Activities

Varsity Debate

Varsity Affirmative, Larry Russell and Ken Kreider.

This year the varsity debate team did very well considering the fact that only two members of last year's team were present. Each team consisted of a member of last year's team and a new member. They were Larry Russell and Ken Kreider - Affirmative; and Lowell Antze and Don Bradley - Negative.

The team was fortunate in having Miss Troyer as this year's coach. Her careful prodding resulted in Ken and Don's rapid improvement. As a result the team finished strongly with a record of four wins and two losses for the Affirmative and two wins and four losses for the Negative.

Varsity Negative, Lowell Antze and Don Bradley.

Coach, Miss Marion Troyer.

Miss Troyer also doubled as the coach for the junior varsity debate team. Under her careful guidance, these junior members improved greatly. It is felt by all that several members will be ready to fill vacancies on next year's varsity team.

Even though it was their first year of debate, the boys debated a full schedule and represented the school very well. With boys like these in the lower grades there is considerable evidence to show that the fine debating tradition of our school will remain unchanged for many years to come.

The yearbook staff congratulates these boys and wishes them the best of good fortune in the future.

Students present Mr. Roberts

This year the students presented Mr. Roberts as the senior school's play. This year's cast was made up of several people who had held parts in past productions but was composed primarily of newcomers to the C.D. stage. The direction of the play was handled by Mr. John Campbell who came to the school this year and has shown that he can be of help in a great number of fields. The play was a comedy about a group of men on a ship in the Pacific during the war and their tyranical captain. We of the yearbook staff take this opportunity to congratulate the players on behalf of everyone who saw the play.

The sailors stop in to bid Roberts Farewell.

Back from leave, the boys are checked over by Doc.

The boys spot their objective off the port bow.

Mission accomplished, Pulver.

The sailors receive a bracing from the Captain.

Literary Club joins activities

Mr. John Chandler conducts one of the typical meetings.

The English Department at Country Day has for many years stressed the importance of reading good books. Now a giant step has been taken by the English teachers. A new club has been formed with the aim of encouraging the development of literary minds. The group is headed under the direction of Mr. Chandler and Mr. Arnold. They meet once a week and discuss the various books which they have been reading. The club is mostly open to honor students who can afford the time of reading extra material. However, any student with the desire can join. As the school increases in size, it is felt that the size and popularity of the club will increase.

The Yearbook Staff

As in past years, this yearbook staff was confronted with many problems. Pictures, writing, financing, and deadlines were the main headaches of the committee. However under the watchful eye of Mr. George Browne, this spirited group marched with great "vigah" toward the completion of the 1963 Blue and Gold.

After a slow start, the pages began to roll by with an ever increasing speed. We of the Yearbook staff feel certain that parents and students alike will enjoy this edition of the 1963 Blue and Gold.

Richard Bull, Paul Engel, Frank Levinson, John Sneed, Steve Lewis, Tom Fogarty, Phil Goodman, Eric Winkelman, Jeff Roberts, Nick Martin, Mr. Held.

Glee Club shows talent

This year the Glee Club was handled by Mr. Held and under his direction it turned in many fine performances during the year. The group's first performance this year was at the annual Football Banquet where they showed their wide versatility by singing several types of songs. As the year progressed so did the Yellowjackets. They appeared at many school assemblies and aided in conveying the deep meanings of the many ceremonious occasions to the audience through the musical medium. We take off our hats to Mr. Held and the boys and congratulate them on a job well done.

Mr. Held coaches Tom Fogarty and Steve Lewis.

Concert proves musical success

For the thirteenth consecutive year, Mr. Valter Poole presented a small number of very fine musicians in a program of equally fine music for the enjoyment of the students, parents, and the faculty of Country Day. Featured also were the Yellowjackets and all in all the evening proved very pleasant to all who attended. There was a wide range of music from classical to folk songs and virtually everybody was able to find at least one piece which matched their musical taste.

The musicians represent Wayne State University and turn in a fine performance every year. It is the feeling of those connected with the concert here at school that there is no finer cultural event in the year and that it is a must for those who love good music.

Valter Poole concert was held for the thirteenth year at C.D.

"Quiz Em" team fights hard

As in past years, Country Day has participated in a quiz program designed for schools to take part in. This year we had an exceptionally bright team to send to "Quiz Em on the Air." Though this year's team was younger than most it did a very creditable job. For a whole week the boys could be seen reading their newspapers boning up for the questions they could be asked. The coach, John Campbell, though busy with the play, aided the boys when possible. Even though the boys weren't victorious, they did a very creditable job for the school and will be back again next year.

This is the team that represented Country Day.

Senior lecture series continues to enlighten

One of the extra opportunities offered at Country Day for the student is the Senior Lecture Series. This consists of different speakers paying a visit to the school and imparting their knowledge for our benefit.

This series was instituted last year by Dr. Snelling. In past years students wanted outside speakers. The series, held usually on Friday afternoons, has had many a fine hour of interest. Also it provides for the widening of students' horizons.

Prefect board experiences a year of growth

Greg Hahn, Steve Serlin, Charlie Adams, Bill Elkington, Henry Sobell, James VanderKloot, and president Tom Fogarty having a weekly meeting.

This year the prefect board was made up of a well rounded group of boys. Being the student council of the school it had some reforms that needed to be made. Among them was the extra cart at the morning break. This cut down on confusion in the halls during this time.

Another of its projects is the rewriting of a new constitution. It feels that for the students of the following year it will be most helpful. Under its direction a social committee was organized. The committee put on a couple of dances during the year that were considered successful for those who came.

This year was a growing year for the board, but for those of future years it will be a year of great benefit.

D club

The motto of the Detroit Country Day is, "Mens Sana In Corpore Sano." This translated means a sound mind in a sound body. Students who are out for the athletic teams at Country Day are fulfilling the second part of this motto. Those who do a good job for the benefit and betterment of the team are awarded letters in that particular sport.

The "D" Club consists of these students who are awarded varsity letters in a sport. This year we have had many new additions as well as those from previous years.

FALL

They do most for close student-faculty relationships

Standing: John Poplawski, Richard Crystal, George Browne, Richard Anderson, Karl Sniderman, Phillip Dillman, John Campbell. Sitting: William Arnold, Elizabeth Lutz, John Chandler.

Among the most dedicated educators at the school are the coaches. These are the people who give up many of their free hours to work with the boys who wish to represent the school on the field, the court, the mat, and the track. These people are all possessed with a certain quality which drives them on to educate the boys in the non-academic areas of school life. The practice sessions often last until long after everyone else at the school has gone home and the teams don't stop for the weather. The teams that these people build may win and they may lose but when the season is over and the boys look back over the long hours of hard work and the weeks of sacrificing many of the enjoyable things in order to stay in shape, they begin to feel a strong admiration for these men and often this is the start of a strong and warm friendship. These are the people who really do establish the close student-faculty relationship that the school has always tried to maintain and it is for this reason especially that the staff of the Blue and Gold salute these fine people and hope that we will always be able to call them our friends.

Fast offense and excellent defense make good season

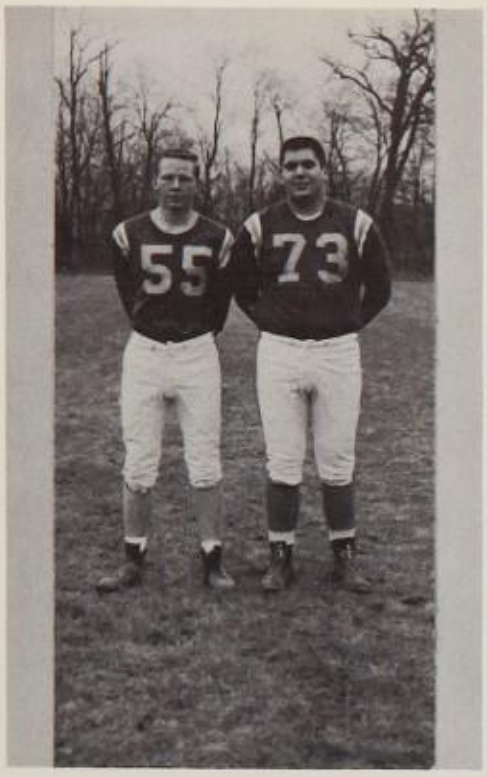
The renaissance has come to Country Day's football efforts. This year with nine returning lettermen and an increased coaching staff the gridiron showed the marked improvement of the team.

Old stalwarts and "new boys" were whipped into shape during two weeks at a pre-season training camp. This year's camp, just outside of Pontiac, was the scene of hard workouts and long chalk talks. With the emphasis on development through training the fellows soon began to function as a team.

The first game of the season vividly showed the hard work which had gone before. Fighting hard from the opening kickoff, a 12 to 7 victory over Queen of Peace was posted by the yellowjackets. The game was played mainly on the ground with fullback Arnold Beckerman highlighting the play. The line proved its worth, not only on offense but also on defense, by holding the opposition to only a few yards rushing.

The next week's game was against Whitmore Lake. After scoring three touchdowns in the first half, the team switched to defense and held its lead. Two of the scores were the efforts of John Marks. He raced 54 yards for one and ran 60 yards with an intercepted pass for the other. Arnold Beckerman scored the third on a 54 yard sprint around the end. Again the defensive unit did a fine job of holding the opposition and keeping the score down

Jim Guest may be lying down on the job, but he is stopping a lone pass receiver from going all the way for a touchdown.



The most valuable player and the most improved player. Lee DeGallen and Steve Munson.

The Pontiac Christian game the following week was forfeited in our favor because of a mix up in scheduling. They say it was a mix up in scheduling but the fellows would like to believe they scared the P.C. boys with the revenge they were planning for a 50 to 0 score last year. The team was fired up for the game and was disappointed when it was forfeited. This didn't last long, however, because an intra-squad game was arranged for the large crowd that had gathered.

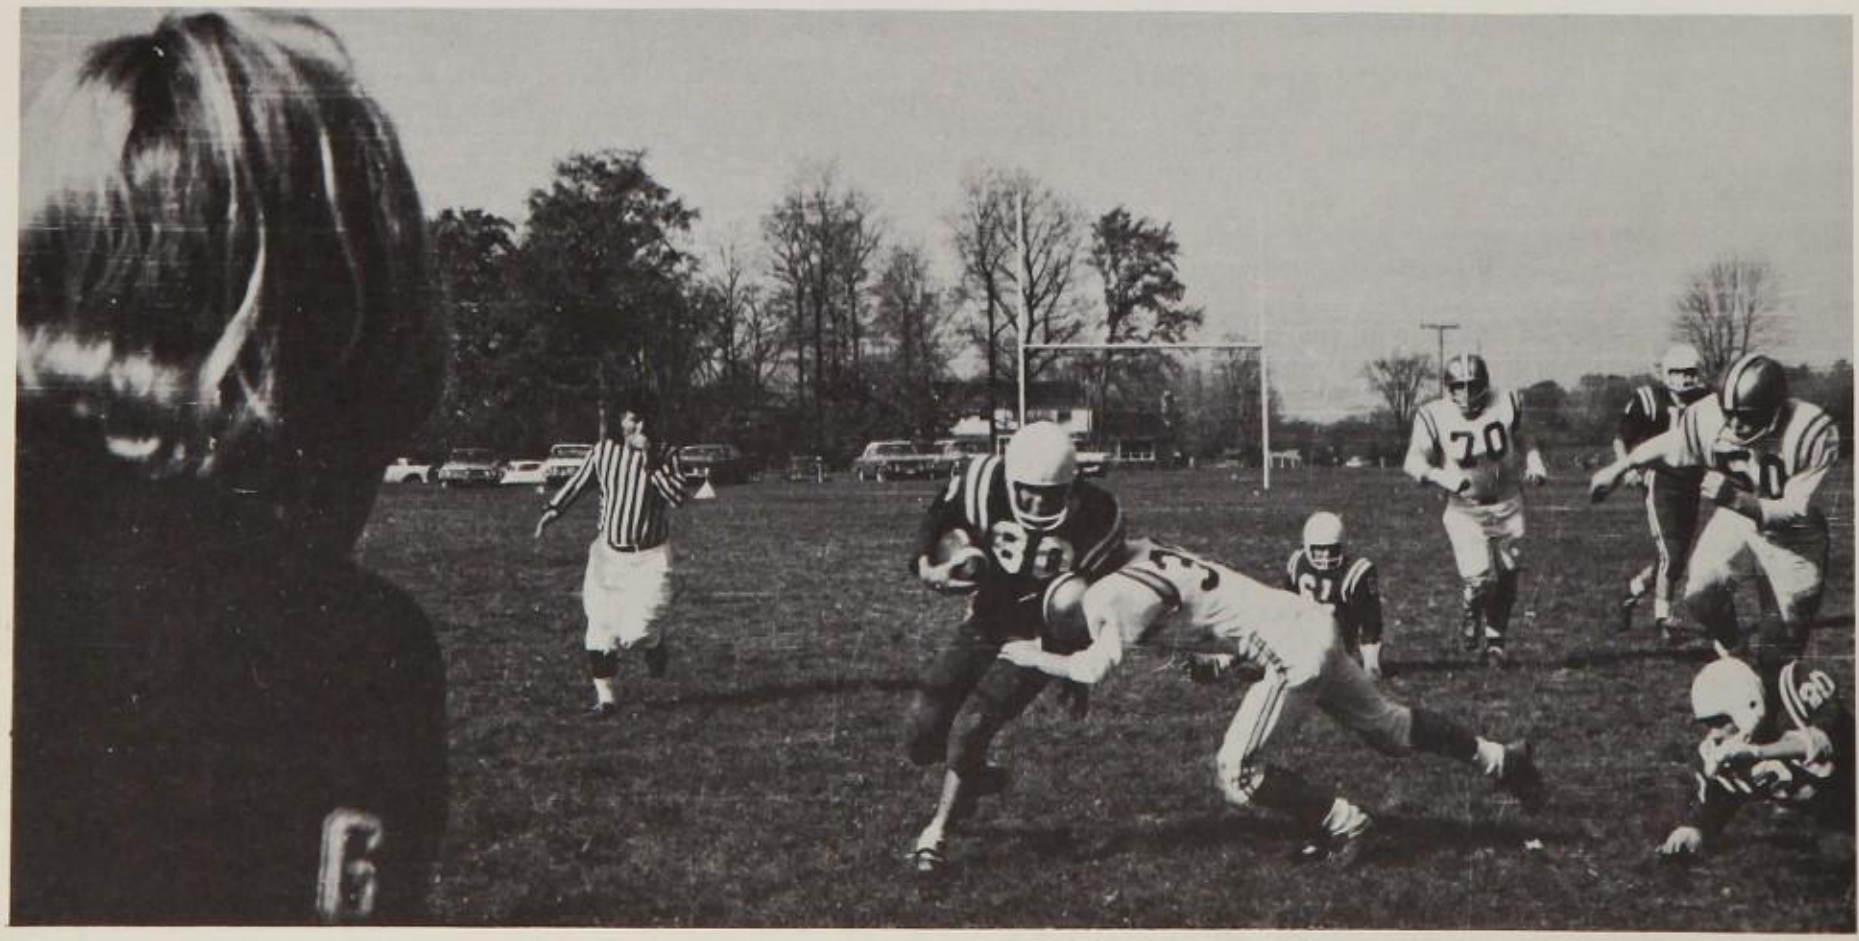
The next Saturday the defense put up a good show against Maumee but the offense didn't get started until late in the game. The fast Maumee backfield was able to squeeze through and win the game 19 to 0.

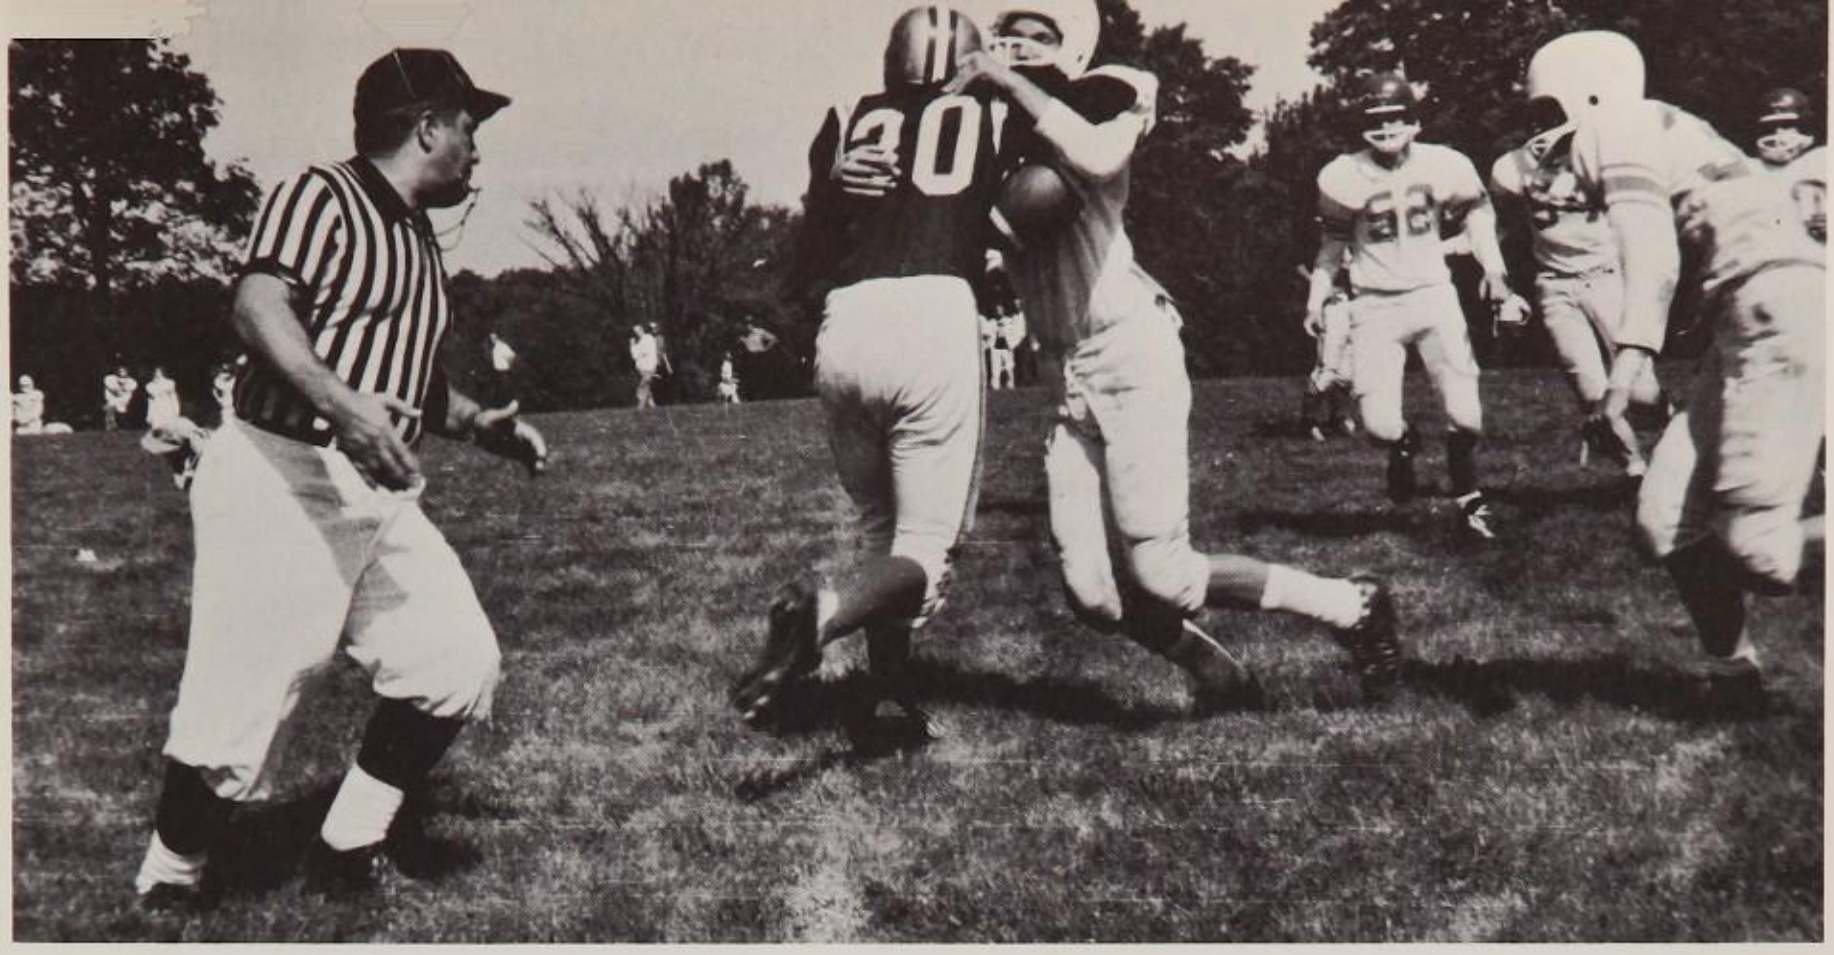
A valiant try by D.C.D.S.

With several first string line and backfield men out of action the loss to Our Lady of Sorrows was inevitable. Despite the line's fine defensive work, a 26 to 13 score gave the visitors the victory. Play by Paul Engle and Arnold Beckerman along with John Marks was excellent throughout the whole game.

The next week the traditional game with Park School of Indianapolis took place on our campus. The small but fast visiting squad was not able to crack our defense or get inside our thirty yard line all day. Fine defensive play and a spirited offense led our team to a 13 to 0 victory over the Hoosiers.

While D.C.D.S. makes an important tackle, a cheerleader from Bloomfield Country Day School is held motionless.





The referee blows his whistle to stop a play. while two opposing men meet face to face.

Both scores were made by John Marks with one being highlighted by a 32 yard pass play from Steve Serlin to Paul Engle and the extra point was scored by Arnold Beckerman.

The final game of the year against Grosse Pointe University School was another traditional rivalry. This annual affair was also held on the home field and provided an exciting climax to the season. The offense and defense worked well during the first half, holding G.P.U.S. scoreless while scoring a touchdown themselves. In the second half. Grosse Pointe came on strong and the game see-sawed back and forth between the two goal lines. The yellowjackets, however, succumbed to the power and let two touchdowns slip by. The team fought hard to regain the lost points but the score remained 14 to 0.

With an experienced line composed of Wally Addis, Chuck O'Neil, Steve Munson and Bob Katzman the backfield was able to get moving. Augmenting the entirely senior line was junior Lee DeGalan. His fine effort at center earned him the most valuable player award while Steve Munson was named the most improved player of the year.

Seniors Arnold Beckerman, Dick Bagley, Paul Engle and Pat Hill also graduate this year, however the experience gained by the underclassmen this year should stand them in good stead all next season.

The ending of a long hard-fought struggle is marked by an exhausted but victorious Country Day team.

This year a new football squad was added to the fall sports program. Twenty-five freshmen and sophomores made their debuts as full season veterans. The purpose was to give the younger players a chance to play football against opponents of equal strength. As a result games were arranged with the freshman squads of several schools participating in the varsity schedule.

Although they dropped three and won two an honest effort was put forth. This was especially evident in the last game of the season. With a two and two record the boys wanted a win over arch-rivals GPUS. We managed to take the lead early in the game and hang on to it until the fourth quarter, when the Grosse Pointers came on to take it away.

Country Day regained possession of the ball in the closing minutes of the game and began a steady drive into Falcon territory. With just a few yards left to go the fellows dug in to make a final push but the gun sounded, ending a hard fought game.

Typical of the fine play this fall was the effort of Hank Sobell at the line backer slot. He, along with guard Al Saylor, managed to pull the team together in several tight spots. The whole squad deserves credit for a well played season.

The experience gained by the junior varsity this year is money in the bank. Next year and the year after it will be revealed in the form of excellence on the varsity gridiron.

The sub-middler team continues to be a source of prime material for our junior varsity and varsity football teams. Here, in the most formative years, the fellows are taught the fundamentals of the game. The play is not as sophisticated as the varsity's, but it is fun and provides thrills for both the boys and the spectators.

Under the able coaching of Mr. Chandler and Mr. Arnold the team learned a few basic plays and perfected them throughout the season. They fought hard and fortunately the two broken arms and the coach's broken finger were freak accidents.

The team was particularly strong defensively, but the offense couldn't get rolling. Mike Otis and Rudy Becker were two reasons for the strength of the defense. Their play against GPUS in the second half of the first game was outstanding.

Undoubtedly there is good potential among the sub-middlers.

A varsity football uniform is tough to fill.

Winning Season Posted by Cross Country Team

Cross country, a relatively new varsity sport on the C.D. campus, affords the runner a good view of the school's thirty-three acres. Primarily an endurance sport, it consists of running two miles up and down hill over rough terrain.

Going into the Albion College Cross Country Run we posted losses to Brother Rice and Clintondale. Although a flat tire delayed our start in that race our runners were able to place sixth in the meet.

This run spurred the boys on through the rest of their scheduled meets. The winning streak started with a three point win over Clintondale in a rematch. Next our team led all the way in a rematch with Brother Rice, defeating them by a sound eleven point margin.

Tension and cold combine on the football field to set the scene for the G.P.U.S. meet.

In the last regular meet of the year we met our arch rival, Grosse Pointe University School. The meet was held during the half time of the annual Park School of Indianapolis football game. The team made it a perfect day all the way around by matching the football team's win with one of their own.

Thanks to the excellent coaching of Mr. Crystal and Mr. Campbell our team went to the state finals with a winning season and hopes of bringing home the bacon. Unfortunately the team was highly outclassed but scored strongly. Congratulations go to the team on its first of many winning seasons.

Captains Gary Grimes and Dave Walker provide leadership.

Varsity wrestling began this year as eighteen boys came out for the tough winter sport. The number was soon cut as the men were separated from the boys. A select group of twelve was just enough for a team.

With the bare minimum of wrestlers it was important that every man establish his minimum weight before the first match. About four members did not certify and as a result we lost their weight classes by default. This gave Whitmore Lake a twenty point lead at the very beginning. Unfortunately the lead was never regained.

The next matches found some of our boys still unregistered and again we started ten or fifteen points down. When the team was finally certified all the way around, we began to have problems keeping within the four pound weight allowances.

Perhaps the greatest fault of the team was a lack of experience. Only one or two wrestlers remained from last year's squad. Those who did, however, fought hard and won.

There was a lack of age in the lightweight classes and this had its effect. We were putting up eighth and ninth graders against sophomores and juniors. The result was inevitable. These boys should be congratulated for their determination, however. They always fought hard and never gave up. A lot of good talent was discovered this year and prospects look good for next year's team.

Among the new teams this year was a seventh and eighth grade wrestling squad. Under the direction of Mr. Sniderman, the boys learned the basic holds and escapes.

The team did not win either of its two matches against more experienced Cranbrook but the ability that was gained should be evident next year.

If the boys can learn to handle themselves by the time they join the varsity squad, wrestling may become the most popular winter sport at Country Day.

With just two returning lettermen on the team, things did not go too well for us this year. The team was composed of two lettermen and a few inexperienced seniors and juniors.

The scoreboard does not justify the effort the fellows put forth. Paul Engel, among others, led many spirited drives that had spectators off the edge of their chairs. The whole season was filled with minutes of good, hard, aggressive play on our part, but we never could get them at the time when they were most needed.

Inexperience made the team look worse than it really was. The opposing teams were composed of seniors with three and four years experience.

The result was that the fellows were outclassed before they even stepped out onto the court.

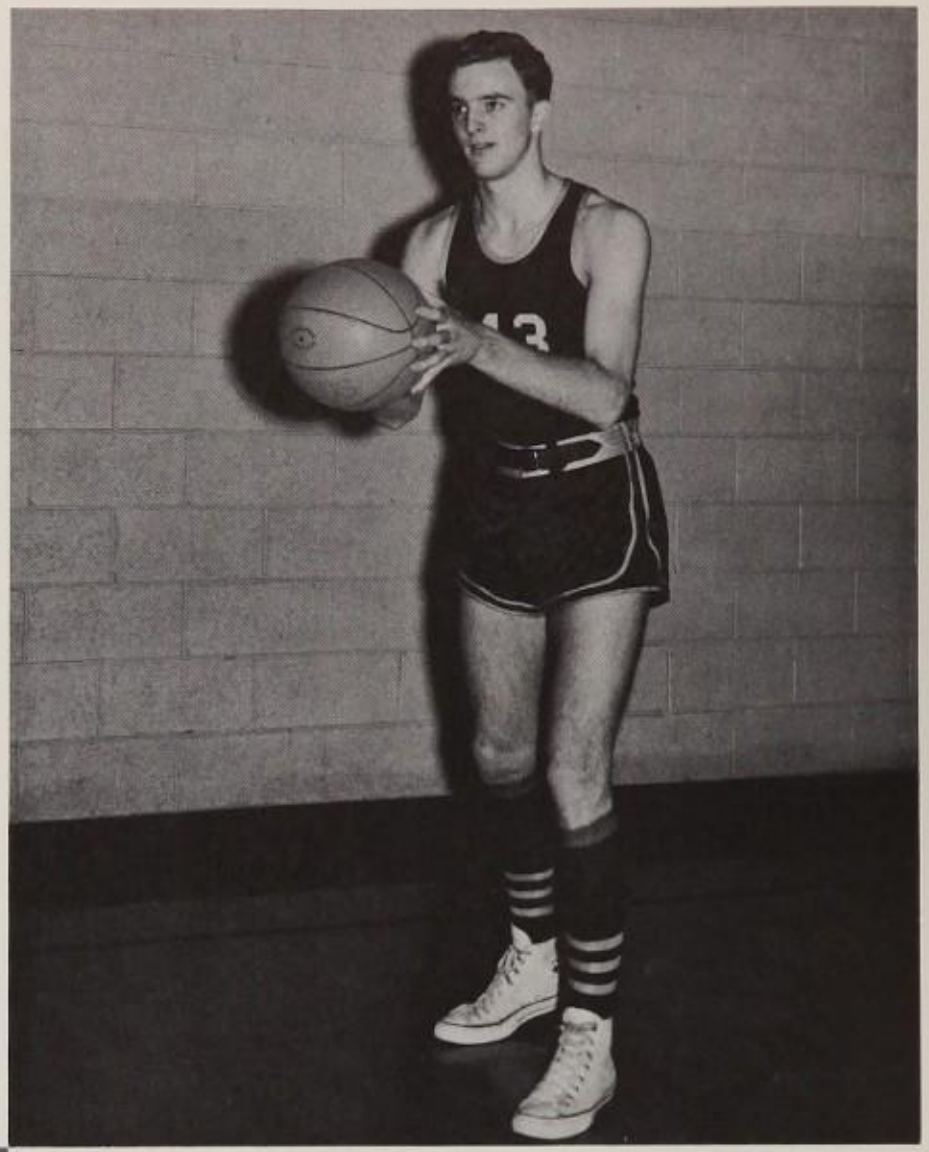
Their hard work and determination were seen in improvement throughout the year.

It is said that success is built on failure and this will be the case next year. Five of this year's team will return as seniors. With the lessons they have learned this year a real improvement should be seen.

Things look even better when it is noticed that the varsity will be getting some good talent from the junior varsity. These freshmen and sophomores gave a good showing this year. Mr. Browne coached his boys to one of the best years the junior varsity has had in several seasons, even though the scoreboard doesn't show it.

A number of the games were even closer than the scores imply. The contests against Pontiac Christian and GPUS were tied at the end of the regular game so they were played off in overtime. Here, where every shot must count, the boys couldn't sink a basket. Balls bounced off the rim and all over the backboard. When the final tallies were made, however, we came out the underdog.

Sharp passes from Paul Engel sparked many drives.



Paul Sonda played a number of good games under the basket.

A lot of good talent is to be found among the jv'ers. Seasoned veterans like Charlie Dean, Mark Greenstone, John Swain, and many others of admirable ability promise an up and coming varsity club.

With the number of boys who will go to the varsity next year, things might not look bright for the JV except for one thing, the seventh and eighth grade basketball team. This team is the lowest rung on the ladder of teams that are needed to provide a good varsity team. For several years Mr. Anderson has been grooming the fifth and sixth graders for this squad. His efforts have not gone unrewarded.

Under the direction of Mr. Dillman they made a creditable record with three wins and four losses. With players like Henry Bowers and Bob Davenport the team came into its own. All of the boys combined to make the season a success.

All in all things have not been too bad this winter. With all the effort that is being and has been put into the creation of a strong basketball organization, results are bound to come. It shouldn't be long before we have a number of winning teams.

This year, for the first time since the school moved to its new location, a hockey team was organized. Only the seventh and eighth graders could participate but, if interest continues, it may become a varsity sport.

The boards were put up early this year and as soon as the temperature fell below freezing a surface was put on the rink. It didn't take long, however, for the hockey players to get it roughed up and into condition.

The fellows worked hard all season under the direction of coach, parent Mr. St. John. The team didn't play any games but the instruction they received should give them a solid footing for next year. With one season's practice behind them they should be able to schedule a couple of games for next winter and get in some good hard play. Success should become the keyword of the hockey team.

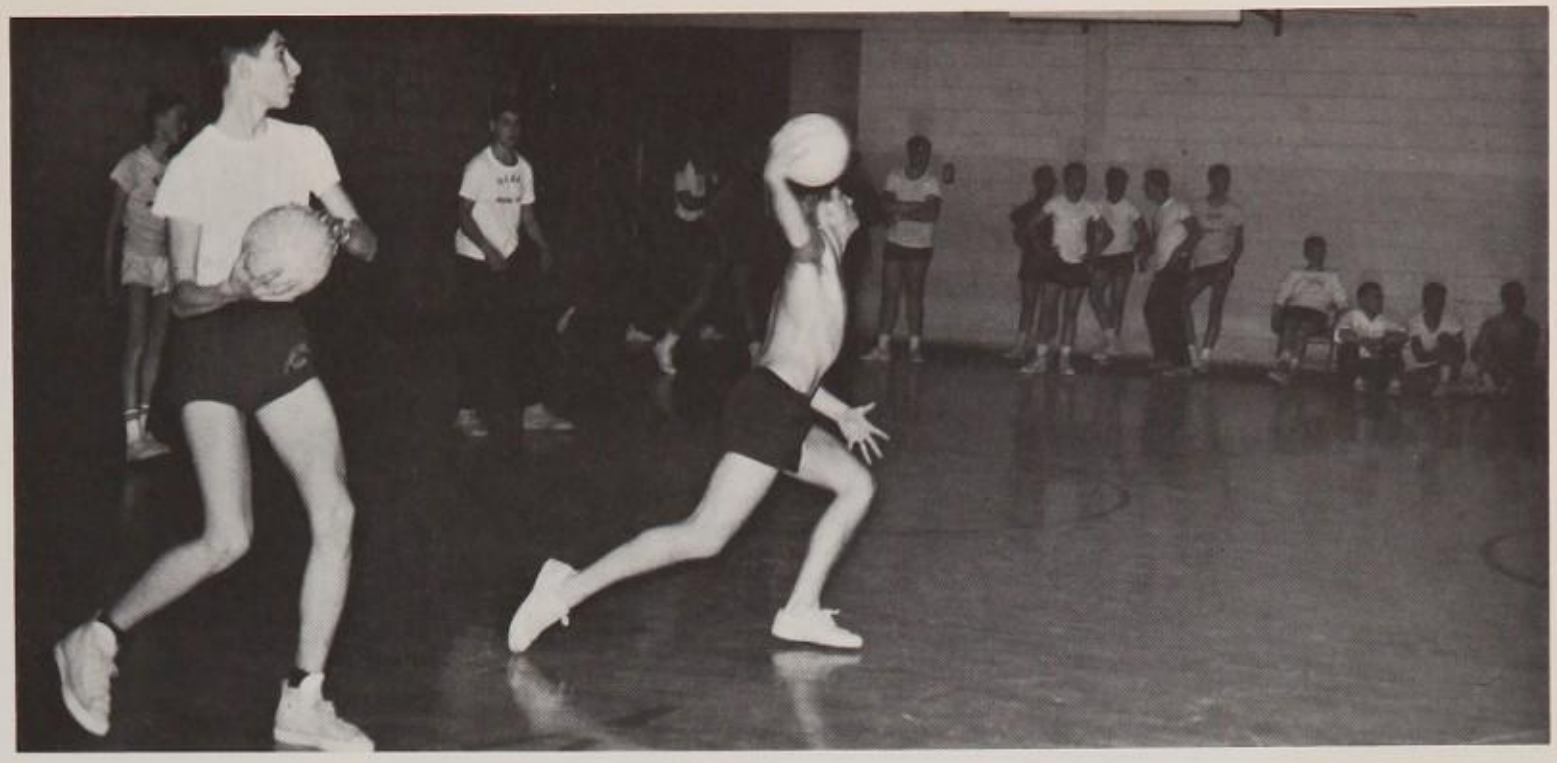
With a flash of steel and a spray of ice the players go flying after the puck.

Inside

or

Intramurals are a big success

outside



You don't want to be on the receiving end of one of Jim Guest's throws.

Intramurals are athletic contests between teams chosen from the student body. Those who don't join an organized team representing the school in inter-scholastic competition are eligible for intramurals.

Senior captains are chosen and then hold a meeting in which they choose their players. These teams are permanent but trades are allowed. Very often the seniors are found off in a corner in a heated discussion that resembles a major league baseball trading session.

The games that are played range from dodge ball inside to Australian rugby outside. Mr. Crystal, as director, did a very good job of keeping up interest by varying the games. Some of the rules of the games were changed to meet the physical set up but these only added to the excitement. All in all intramurals were a big success this year and everybody had a good time.

Only at DCDS could you find Australian Rugby being played outdoors in the dead of winter.

SPRING

Track scores success

To some people track may be thought of as an individual sport. This, however, is not always the case. In order to produce a track star, a team must be prevalent. With this team comes competition, and this, above all, is the most important factor in breaking records. The desire to excel always encourages the spirit in our efforts.

Baseball team promises a winning season

Baseball hopes are high this year. New uniforms and a nucleus of returning players should make things go well this season.

Closest to the cry, "Play ball," this year will be Steve Serlin. He has only played catcher one season but his performance was excellent. Holding down first base will be Bob Hourihan. He is a four season veteran and the most consistent hitter on the team. His running, however, leaves a lot to be desired. He is the only member of the team who can hit a double and have the team off its bench hollering for him to get on first before he is tagged out. Bob is especially good as a clinch hitter and he can always come up with a hit when it is needed the most.

The bats of Arnie Beckerman and John Marks will be our main threats at the plate. Arnie has been a consistently good hitter and John has the coordination necessary to put the ball beyond the reach of the best outfielders.

A number of this year's varsity players have come up through Mr. Poplawski's hamburger league. This was started several years ago, in order to give the younger fellows some experience. These boys should prove to be invaluable this year.

Without trying to sound too optimistic, things should go well this year for the varsity ball club. Mr. Poplawski and Mr. Sniderman have done some fine coaching this spring and this season has all the possibilities of being one of our finest.

Coach Poplawski's batting tips are always of interest to players.

Body Brown goes up on his toes to deliver a smart serve.

Tennis is firmly seated in athletics program

This is tennis' second year at Country Day. The tennis courts are in fine condition and they provide more than enough room for the varsity squad. It does not seem that it will be necessary to use other courts this year, but with the increasing enrollment, the number of courts is bound to increase proportionately.

Under Mr. Chandler's guidance, the fellows learned the basics and had a few matches last year. They are in good shape to play winning tennis this year.

Golfers swing into spring

Golf balls started flying around the science lab early this year. Like most ardent golfers, the team wanted to get out on the course and see how much they had forgotten. As a result, nine irons were lifting balls out of snowbanks in thirty degree weather.

The team is hampered by the lack of any place to "swing out" with the long woods on our campus. They do, however, get the use of Lancaster Hills golf course through a cooperative agreement.

Lancaster is a small course but it is a place to sharpen up on your game. From the early results out there, it looks like we will have another winning golf team.

Art class interests many students.

Junior School Activities

The junior school program is a widely diversified one with activities in music, manual and creative arts, and an ample period each day set aside for recreation. The students receive careful guidance and receive instruction in all of these areas in addition to the regular academic program. Each year around Christmas time the junior school presents a program where most of these areas are combined.

Mrs. Wresche is valuable to junior school.

Mr. Harris instructs in the manual arts program.

In the years that we have known Wally the members of the Class of '63 have been impressed with his light manner and well developed sense of humor. An all around student, Wally has represented the class well in all aspects of school life with a widely diversified record of extra curricular participation.

That Wally is one of the most popular boys in the school is attested by the number of elective and appointive posts he has filled. His devotion to the school is shown in the success with which these various committees have met during the periods he has served on them.

The members of the class all join in wishing Wally the best of luck in his future years in whatever field he may choose as his life's work.

Returning to us this year after a brief period at another school was Spencer Rogers. This year the class has benefitted many times from his advice and we owe him a debt of gratitude. In his years at Country Day he has established himself as reserved but willing to do what he can for anybody.

Spencer's all around personality has served him well and he has made many friends through the years. He has taken part in quite a few activities and worked hard in all of them achieving creditably in many.

We take this opportunity to thank Spencer for all that he has done for us and to wish him all the best in years to come.

Larry is the forensic expert in the class and has often used this talent with the objective of gaining things for the class. In this branch applications he usually is unsuccessful but this is due to an adamant faculty rather than to his own inadequacies. In competition against other schools Larry holds an excellent record and is well respected in debate circles. Larry has also taken part in many other activities and has also compiled a fine scholastic record.

We all wish Larry continued success in all aspects of his life and hope that he meets with nothing but success.

Phil no sooner joined our class this year than he acquired a good sized circle of friends. There were reasons for this and they soon became evident to all concerned. Phil has a sense of humor which seems to creep into all that he does. He also has a sense which tells him what to say or what not to say to avoid offending people with whom he comes in contact.

This year he has taken part in many things and performed well in all. We all feel that Phil has the stuff to continue in this manner and sincerely hope that this is the case.

When you look back on Jim's record in the past years there is practically nothing you can say other than WOW. Jim has done about everything at one time or another and has done them all well. In testimony to his responsibility I offer you this yearbook. Jim has been honored through the years with election to many offices and appointment to many more. Jim has always held a fine scholastic record and has always been a fine all around student.

There is nothing more that can be said except that we all sincerely wish him the best of luck in the future years and thank him for the fine job he has done as editor of this book.

Eric has been with our class for many years and in that time has exhibited the qualities that make a fine all around student and has made many friends. Eric has taken part in a great number of activities at school and they have come from many fields. He has always served our class in good stead and we all owe him a debt of gratitude.

We all feel sure that Eric will be successful in any field he chooses and wish him the best of luck always.

The 1963 Blue and Gold has been an experience in the making. We of the staff feel that it will bring enjoyment to all who read it. Many people do not realize the amount of time it takes to get a publication into the hands of its readers. The only formula for such a task is work.

The yearbook staff would like to thank in particular these people who have also helped us through this book —
